Keeping in good form!

Scott Carey visited his doctor, Bob Ellis, for his medical check-up. He was a big man who started to lose weight quickly. He thought he had diabetes until something else was discovered to be the cause of his extraordinary weight loss.

Scott lived in Castlerock, the gated community town with his neighbours. Across from his house was where a married couple lived. They ran their vegetarian restaurant which was boycotted by the conservative residents with anti-LGBTQ views.

There was an annual road running race which would change the lives of some residents with extraordinary events!

I adore this short story with supernatural events!
