

Pray for Death by James Hilton.

5 Stars

If you mess with the Gunn Brothers' family, you will not live for long.

Celine Chavez and her parents are like family to Clay Gunn. When she and some friends go missing in Mexico, Clay and Danny travel to Cancun and then to the inhospitable jungle in search of the teens and to KILL anyone who hurts themselves or their loved ones.

This is the third in the Gunn Brothers series along with 'Search and Destroy' and 'Fight or Die'.

James Hilton never lets you down; his books keep you on the edge of your seat and his characters are so strong they could be real people.

This book is no exception. From page one, I was hooked until the blood-soaked ending. The Gunn Brothers bounce off each other, both as violent but they also have kind hearts and a fierce determination to keep the innocent safe and destroy the bad guys any which way they can.

As you can gather, I love these books; fast-paced, funny, bloody and always a good believable story that keeps me reading and entertained. The storyline is original which is one of my key things in books; keep it new, keep it fresh. James does it every time.

A recommended book and series if you love good guys v bad guys.
