

Set Me Free by Salvatore Striano

4 Stars

Salvatore Striano is the well-known Italian actor who appeared in the films and television shows, Gomorra and Cesare deve morire (based on William Shakespeare's Julius Caesar).

Salvatore was involved in a gang in the street violence and drug dealing in the Spanish quarters of Naples, carrying pistols. He was in prison when he first discovered William Shakespeare and was suggested to join the prison troupe.

This story was about the changes in Salvatore's behaviour. There was also betrayal and forgiveness.

I applaud the actor's true biography and hope to see the new Shakespeare's plays in the Italian versions.
